SILVER MOON

THE WILD WEST JUST GOT WILDER

THE SLUG

How do you stop the Bad Guys, when they're not "Guys?"

THE TALE

Hear the vibe

Marshal Quinten Kane feels nothing but the siren call of his moral compass. The ultimate Lone Lawman stumbles into the forgotten town of Wolf Creek Flats, where the townsfolk are under siege from Grey and his followers. The town desperately needs a hero, because Grey ain't your average Outlaw.

He's a werewolf, and is expanding his pack to not only take the town, but the territory with a thirst for more. Grey has a prophecy to fulfill, a destiny that claims he's born to rule.

Now Q's life is turned upside down, as this cursed man begins to find love again. But as his heart awakens, he's becoming more mortal. Is Tala truly the love of his life, or is she Grey's pawn?

Can Q and the downtrodden rise to defeat a werewolf army before the Silver Moon?

This genre-bending flick has all the hallmarks of a monster movie, a Western opera, and a whole new mythology like nothing you've ever seen.

THE BACKSTORY

Silver Moon began life as the third installment to a genre-smashing trilogy. First there was Zombi-Noir. Then Christmas Horror. And now a Werewolf Western.

But like all great stories, it sparked a life of its own, gathering steam and a new team of passionate artists.

With these movies behind us, it's time to aim a little higher.

Everything Old

Is New Again

We're not reinventing the wheel here. Paranormal Westerns have a proven track record with audiences. And the box office. COWBOYS & ALIENS, JONAH HEX, PURGATORY and others have cut the trail for us.

What sets SILVER MOON apart is our mythology and tone. Against a backdrop of monsters and mayhem, this is really a story about redemption. About finding love, life, and a reason to live. Our backgrounds in action, horror as well as family films shines through the screen. We are story-based, not gore-based, character-driven, not VFX driven. Doesn't matter how cool they look turning into werewolves, if we're not deeply invested in how they feel about turning into werewolves

While the high octane story telling keeps us on the edge of our seats, it's the gut-punch to the feels that takes us to another level.

THE MYTHOLOGY

Magic exists in the world of Silver Moon. But like radio waves that have been around since the dawn of time, they weren't discovered until the 20th century. Magic's like that. It lies hidden in plain sight and can be used by those with the eyes to see.

Not only does this give Silver Moon a rich and nuanced world as our playground. It also opens up a wide range of possibilities as story-tellers. Imagine all the other sagas that can be set against that backdrop.

Look at how full the Marvel MCU has become. Or the Star Wars Universe. The growing canon of Star Trek. Even Harry Potter. All have multiple threads existing in a single tapestry.

THE CHARACTERS

Q (MARSHAL QUINTEN KANE) is the ultimate lone lawman. Stoicism as performance art. Years ago, just before his Cherokee wife was murdered by an angry mob, she gifted him with her kujiko. Her love-force that allowed him to survive his own lynching. But it cost him his feelings. He's immortal, doesn't feel pain, or joy, or love. The only thing keeping him sane is his unwavering moral compass. An obsession with justice and right vs wrong. But now that his feelings for the town, and especially Tala, are waking up, he's vulnerable again. Will his love for Tala finally be his Achilles heel? Love and Death. Who knew?

TALA is the last surviving member of her werewolf pack. A Princess once destined to mate with Grey, the Alpha of a rival pack to unite the werewolves at long last. But after being hunted to near extinction, Tala and Grey forged different paths. She embraced kindness, love and hope. She's eager as a puppy with an insatiable curiosity, loving all things human. She delights in the small pleasures of ordinary life and will fight furiously to protect those she's in her new pack. Smart, funny, brave. Shakespeare wrote sonnets about her. Ships woulda been launched in her name.

GREY is not the werewolf of your nightmares. He's so much worse. Charming, dominant, forceful and fearless. Once destined to be ruler of the lycans, his hatred of humanity has driven him to do some horrible things. With much more to come. His only weakness is his love for Tala, the bitch (literally) he was promised in his youth. Grey is building an army to reclaim his birthright as the once and future king.

THE CHARACTERS

CHAOS KATE is Grey's #2. A cigar chompin', whiskey downin', tobacco chewin' tough girl who takes Bad Hair Day to a whole new level. She willingly joined Grey's campaign and would do anything for him. Probably 'cause she's holding a damn big torch for the Lycan King. As a human, Kate's as ruthless as she is filthy. As a werewolf, she's even ruthless-er, but her loyalty runs deep.

KIT BRODY is the mild mannered store clerk. A small, decent man raising his seven year old daughter on his own. If the meek shall inherit, then Kit's at the top of the will. Trying hard to be the man his wife thought he was, he's doing everything to honor her memory. But when the shit hits the fan, the man he was comes back with a vengeance. A train-robbing gun hand with the fasted draw this side of the Mason Dixon. Sometimes a good cause needs a former gad guy.

REVEREND DEJOY is a man of god. If your god loves fire, brimstone, hate and intolerance. Convinced he's doing the Lord's work, the good Reverend is capable of some downright un-good things. A powerful speaker and fluent in scripture, he knows how to work a crowd. Is he a bad man or just a useful fool?

THE CHARACTERS

JASPER is a new recruit in Grey's army. A hot-headed, illiterate gunny with a hair trigger temper. Tybalt, without the brains. But rattle-snake mean he's just the kind of man (or wolf) that Grey needs. A willing soldier, ready to obey orders and do the nasty work that needs to be done.

DOC REEVES wears alotta hats. The town Doctor, Vet, Fire Chief, Dentist and more. A solid man who loves Tala like his own daughter and will stand as her protector. He's also a bit of a self-taught historian in all things Lycan. His open mind and opener heart has allowed him to see, if not fully understand, that magic exists in the world. He just hasn't figured out where to look or what to do with it if he finds it. Everybody's favorite grandpa. Oh, BTW, he's also deadly with a slingshot.

MAYOR BLACKWOOD is the grisled leader of Wolf Creek Flats. A man in over his head, unable to fully comprehend this new world, and impotent to do anything about it. Yet he cares for this forsaken town and will do his best to serve the public. In a different universe, he'd probably be out panning for gold. Now he's got his sights set on silver.
